College Road Primary School Single Equality Scheme

Introduction

College Road Primary School is aware that current legislation has made significant changes to many different aspects relating to equality. This scheme endeavours to bring together action plans for Race, Gender and Disability equality, thus meeting the school's statutory duties in these areas. It also goes beyond these three streams and begins to consider how the school develops its approach to equalities and diversity for all our pupils, staff and their parents and carers. We are also committed to responding to all diversity related legislation and feel that a single equality scheme is the best mechanism for achieving this.

The scheme also highlights how the school has worked with and listened to the staff, pupils, parents and carers to inform development of action plans and the need and commitment required to ensure the scheme is a success.

As well as delivering high quality services to its pupils, the school is also committed to being a good employer and as such this scheme outlines how we meet our varied duties in terms of recruitment and employment practices.

The School

College Road is a community school situated close to the city centre. The school is surrounded by a wide range of housing, from landlord owned flats and council housing to privately owned, detached properties.

Parents come from diverse social and cultural backgrounds. We have a number of children from Eastern Europe, Asia, Africa and the far East and have at least 5 different languages spoken in school.

The layout of the school makes it difficult to provide access for people with physical disabilities. There is no lift access, and limited opportunities to provide enhanced access of all types for disabled people.

National Context for Diversity

As well as delivering on its commitment to promote equality across all the six strands of diversity- age, disability, faith and belief, gender, race and sexual orientation, the school has a duty to comply with a large and complex suite of equality legislation. As such, the Single Equality Scheme has been devised to ensure that all our policies and practices meet with all the legislative requirements including:

The Education and Inspections Act 2006 - establishes a new strategic role for Local authorities, including duties to promote choice, diversity, high standards and the fulfilment of potential for every child and places a duty on school governing bodies to promote well-being and community cohesion, and to take the Children and Young People's Plan into consideration.

Disability Discrimination Acts (DDA) - give disabled people rights in a wide range of key areas such as employment, education, access to goods, facilities and services and buying or renting land and property. They require public bodies to promote equality of opportunity for disabled people, and organisations to take reasonable steps to tackle policies, practices and physical features that act as a barrier to disabled people who want to access their services.

Equality Act 2010 - establishes a single Commission for Equality and Human Rights (CEHR) from October 2007, and a duty on public authorities to promote equality of opportunity between men and women (the 'gender duty'). It also makes discrimination on the grounds of religion or belief in the provision of goods, facilities, services, premises, education and the exercise of public functions unlawful, and provides powers to outlaw discrimination on the grounds of sexual orientation in the provision of goods, facilities and services, including adoption. The Equality Act regulations came into force in April 2007.

Employment Equality - (Religion or Belief)/(Sexual Orientation) Regulations 2003 – outlaw discrimination in employment and vocational training on the grounds of religion, belief or sexual orientation. It prevents both direct and indirect discrimination as well as harassment and victimisation on these grounds.

Civil Partnership Act 2004 - ensures same sex partners who register as civil partners will be treated the same as a married couple for a number of legal rights. These include pensions, recognition for immigration, equal treatment for tax purposes including inheritance tax and better protection from domestic violence. Civil partners are also exempt from testifying against each other in court as are married couples, as well as having next of kin rights, thus overcoming a number of previously experienced problems. Local authorities are obliged to provide civil partnership ceremonies as part of their register office functions where there are requested. A couple who have not registered their partnership but have lived together as if they were civil partners are to be treated as heterosexual unmarried couples living together as husband and wife.

Equalities Review - which was jointly sponsored by the Equality Minister and the Minister for the Cabinet Office: Investigated the social, economic, cultural and other factors that limit or deny people the opportunity to make the best of their abilities:

- Provided an understanding of the long term and underlying causes of disadvantage that need to be addressed by public policy

- Made practical recommendations on key policy priorities for: the government and public sector; employers and trade unions; civic society and the voluntary sector.
- Informed both the modernisation of equality legislation, towards a single equality act; and the development of the new commission for equality and human rights.

Gender Recognition Act 2004 - allows transgender people (who are able to satisfy the necessary evidential requirements) to apply for a Gender Recognition Certificate, which provides full legal recognition of their acquired gender. Following a successful application, the law regards the transsexual person as being of their acquired gender, and ensures they have all the rights and responsibilities appropriate to that gender.

Human Rights Act 1998 - The act applies directly to public authorities and incorporates the European Convention on Human Rights into UK law. Human rights are rights and freedoms that belong to all individuals regardless of their nationality and citizenship. They are fundamental in maintaining a fair and civilised society.

Race Relations (Amendment) Act 2000 amended the 1976 Race Relations Act which was introduced to prevent discrimination on the grounds of race, colour, nationality, ethnic and national origin in the fields of employment, the provision of goods and services, education and public functions. It also set up the Commission for Racial Equality (CRE). The 2000 amendment to the act introduced onto public authorities the general duties to promote racial equality and eliminate unlawful discrimination.

The Gender, Race and Disability Equality Duties

These duties impose broad obligations on public authorities, including schools, to:

- Eliminate discrimination and harassment;
- Have due regard to the promotion of equality and opportunity between persons and other persons;
- Promote positive attitudes;
- Encourage participation by minority and under-served groups in public life;
- Take steps to take account of people's specific needs even when this requires treating some individuals more favourably than others.
- Conduct impact assessments, and draw up relevant schemes (and publicise them).

The three duties are broadly similar in their approach and aims, however in order to ensure the school is compliant with all, they are detailed below;

The Race Equality Duty

What is Race?

A race is a distinct group or population of people distinguished in some way from others most often in terms of physical characteristics but also language, history, ancestry and culture.

What is the Race Equality Duty?

The duty was detailed in the Race Relations Amendment Act 2000 and includes both a general and specific duty.

The General Duty as set out in section 71(1) of the Act, requires a school in carrying out its functions to have due regard to the need to:

- Eliminate unlawful discrimination
- Promote equality of opportunity
- Promote good relations between different racial groups.

The Specific Duties are set out in articles 2(3) and 2(4) of the Race

Relations Act 1976 (Statutory Duties) Order 2001 which states that school should develop a race equality scheme which highlights:

- Those of its functions and policies, or proposed policies, which it has assessed as relevant to its performance of the duty imposed by section 71(1) of the Race Relations Act and its arrangements for:
 - assessing and consulting on the likely impact of its proposed policies on the promotion of race equality
 - Monitoring its policies for any adverse impact on the promotion of race equality
 - Publishing the results of its assessments, consultation and
 - monitoring, providing public access to information
 - Training staff in connection with the duties

The Race Equality Scheme must be reviewed every three years.

Explanation of the text to the left.

We make sure that we check that the changes we make have a positive effect. We check that the changes do not have any negative effects. We let people know how the changes have affected race relations.

What are the key issues for our school?

The school needs to be aware that our catchment area includes a number of families from a wide range of countries, cultures and social backgrounds. We need to ensure that we meet the language, cultural and social needs of all pupils.

We need to ensure that we celebrate cultural diversity in our school. We will also ensure that the school raises the awareness of all children to the diverse, multi cultural society we live in today.

What impact have we already had on race equality in our school?

The school has worked hard to ensure that we offer all children access to information and experiences relating to a multi-cultural society. We have strong links with schools in China.

We have achieved International Schools Status. In achieving this award we have developed our curriculum and approach to teaching. The school has revised curriculum policies to increase opportunities for pupils to learn about language and culture of different ethnic groups. This is recognised in the International Schools Award.

We have sent staff on language training and have strong links with the language services of the local authority.

The Disability Equality Duty

What is Disability?

People are affected by disability or health conditions in different ways. This can happen suddenly, as a result of accidents or strokes for example, or gradually as a result of conditions such as arthritis and multiple sclerosis. There is often no defining moment when a health issue becomes a disability, at least for the individual concerned. If a condition affects everyday activities, such as

- the ability to move around
- manual dexterity
- physical co-ordination
- continence
- the ability to lift, carry or move ordinary objects
- speech, hearing or eyesight
- memory, or ability to concentrate, learn or understand
- ability to recognise physical danger

and has lasted, or is likely to last, at least a year, then it is likely to be covered by the Disability Discrimination Act

There are two approaches to disability commonly used, the Medical Model and the Social Model.

Medical Model

The “medical model” is a traditional model of disability focused on the individual and their particular physical difficulties which prevents them from undertaking everyday activities which non-disabled people take for granted.

The range of social contact for the disabled person where the 'medical model' is applied is illustrated in the diagram overleaf.

Social Model

The “social model” focuses on the social environment and how it causes some people to be disabled. As a result if the organisation of society e.g. stairs to access buildings, lead to disability then it is these things which must be changed. The disabling forces at work where the 'social model' is applied can be seen below:

The School fully supports the Social Model definition of disability. As service providers we must ensure that we do not impose barriers on anyone accessing our services and that we consider the needs of the individual person rather than focusing on any impairment.

What is the Disability Equality Duty?

There are two duties which apply to schools

The General Duty requires the school to:

- Promote equality of opportunity between disabled persons and other persons

- Eliminate discrimination that is unlawful under the Act
- Eliminate harassment of disabled persons that is related to their disabilities
- Promote positive attitudes towards disabled persons
- Encourage participation by disabled persons in public life; and
- Take steps to take account of disabled persons' disabilities, even where that involves treating disabled persons more favourably than other persons.

This general duty provides a framework for the school to carry out its functions more effectively and to tackle discrimination and its causes in a proactive way. It requires us to adopt a proactive approach, mainstreaming disability equality into all decisions and activities.

The Specific Duties require the school to:

- Publish a Disability Equality Scheme demonstrating how it intends to fulfil its general and specific duties.
- Involve disabled people in the development of the scheme which outlines:
 - They way in which disabled people have been involved
 - The school's methods for impact assessment
 - Steps which the authority will take towards achieving the general duty
 - The school's arrangements for gathering information in relation to employment, education and service delivery
 - Deliver the scheme within three years, unless it is unreasonable and impractical to do so

What are the key issues for our school?

The physical layout of the school makes it difficult for the school to meet the needs of the wider community. There is limited access to the school for people with physical disabilities.

We need to work towards the implementation of identified measures that will meet the need of stakeholders with sight and hearing problems.

Ensure that we work with the local authority to ensure that, within reason, we meet the needs of children and adults in the school, whatever their disability. This would include provision for the refurbishment of the building to enable full access for disabled people of relocation / rebuilding on a new site.

Full details are contained in the Access Audit and the Access Action plan.

What impact have we already had on disability equality in our School?

The school has identified children and adults in the school who have a disability that might prohibit them from full access to the school and its services. Within the school and with the LA we have implemented support networks for those identified individuals.

Through PSHE the school tackles issues relating to disability.

Co-ordinators are exploring the purchase of literature that pro actively promotes disability and how disabled people are perceived.

We have reviewed all policies and procedures in school to ensure that we meet the guidelines re the duty.

The Gender Equality Duty

What is Gender?

The term 'gender' refers to the social construction of female and male identity, rather than biological differences between men and women. It includes the ways in which those differences, whether real or perceived, have been valued, used and relied upon to classify women and men and to assign roles and expectations to them. The significance of this is that the lives and experiences of women and men, including their experience of accessing services, can be significantly different. Gender is not always fixed and the Gender Equality Duty urges public service providers to have due regard to the needs of transgender residents.

What is the Gender Equality Duty

The duty to promote Gender Equality was issued under the Equality Act 2006 which amended the Sex Discrimination Act of 1975, in a similar vein to Race and Disability legislation; it contains both a general and specific duty:

The General Duty on all authorities is when carrying out their functions, to have due regard to the need to:

- eliminate unlawful discrimination between women and men
- to promote equality of opportunity between men and women

The Specific Duties are as follows:

- to prepare and publish a gender equality scheme, showing how it will meet its general and specific duties and setting out its gender equality objectives,
- in formulating its overall objectives, to consider the need to include objectives to address the causes of any gender pay gap,
- to gather and use information on how the public authority's policies and practices affect gender equality in the workplace and in the delivery of services,
- to consult stakeholders and take account of relevant information in order to determine its gender equality objectives,
- to assess the impact of its current and proposed policies and practices on gender equality,

- to implement the actions set out in its scheme within three years, unless it is unreasonable or impractical to do so,
- to report against the scheme every year and review the scheme at least every three years.

What are the key issues for our school?

To ensure that all literature in school refers to gender equality guidelines. Ensure that all appointments/ job descriptions make reference to the guidelines and that there is no discrimination evident.

All staff aware of the duty and ensure that there is no discrimination at any level in the school. This would include being aware that there was no gender pay gap.

What impact have we already had on gender equality in our School?

PSHEE teaching within the school ensures that children are aware of issues relating to gender and what is acceptable in society.

Job specifications have been revised to ensure that there is no gender bias.

Age, Faith & Belief and Sexual Orientation

“Strong and Prosperous Communities” the recent Local Government White Paper has recognised the importance of community cohesion and valuing all residents to improving quality of life. This is coupled with the ongoing Discrimination Law Review which is considering the introduction of a single public sector equality duty, thus creating a more streamlined equalities structure. Also, the ongoing equalities review has recently reported and identifies the core priorities for local authorities and their partners in terms of promoting equalities. This will enshrine all aspects of equalities into the work of public authorities. The school is already committed to improving its services and the quality of life for all Plymouth residents regardless of their race, gender or disability but also their age, faith and sexual orientation. As a result the Council is looking to develop strategies and action plans in these areas over the short to medium term. This will supplement the general commitment in this scheme to introduce actions which wherever possible cut across all six diversity strands. Further information on age, faith and sexual orientation is given below.

Age

The Employment Equality (Age) Regulations 2006 came into force on 1st October 2006. They apply to employment and vocational training, and prohibit unjustified direct and indirect age discrimination, as well as harassment and victimisation on grounds of age. The regulations (which do not affect the age at which people can claim their state pension):

- ban age discrimination in terms of recruitment, promotion and training.
- ban unjustified retirement ages of below 65.

- remove the current age limit for unfair dismissal and redundancy rights.

They also introduced:

- A right for employees to request working beyond retirement age and a duty on employers to consider that request.
- A new requirement for employers to give at least six months notice to employees about their intended retirement date so that individuals can plan better for retirement, and be confident that "retirement" is not being used as cover for unfair dismissal.

The School is implementing these regulations through its Human Resources function and employment practices to ensure no current or potential employee experiences discrimination as a result of their age. We are also committed to ensuring that no members of the school community face any such discrimination in all aspects of their lives and has equal access to all the services provided by the School.

Faith & Belief

As a result of the Employment Equality (Religion or belief) Regulations (2003), it is unlawful to discriminate against an employee on grounds of their religion or belief. These regulations prevent both the indirect and direct discrimination as well as harassment and victimisation of an individual and have been implemented throughout the school.

In the wider community, the school has tended to consider race and faith together. Work will continue within the school to further develop understanding of the issues and consideration given to how best to address any faith based discrimination identified. Also we will work to further develop our understanding of the issues surrounding belief. Appropriate actions for faith and belief will be developed through the implementation of this scheme.

Sexual Orientation

Gay men, lesbians and bisexuals are protected at work by the Employment Equality (Sexual Orientation) Regulations of 2003, which in a similar way as faith regulations, prevent discrimination and harassment at work as a result of sexual orientation. The school has implemented these regulations and works to ensure no discrimination takes place amongst its workforce. In the wider community the Government estimates that approximately 5% of the population are either gay men, lesbians or bisexuals although figures are not clear as no national census has requested data on sexual orientation.

The school is committed to creating a community where everyone has equal access to its services and feel accepted and valued. As such renewed efforts will be made to consult and involve gay, lesbian and bisexual people in the development of school services.

How We Have Developed the Scheme

This scheme has been developed collaboratively and is the result of consulting with pupils, staff and parents and carers.

Equality Impact Assessments

Equality Impact Assessments are a crucial mechanism for ensuring the embedding of equalities and diversity. Impact assessments will be carried out covering all 6 equality and diversity strands (race, religion, disability, age, gender and sexual orientation) and will identify both good practice as well as areas where our performance in ensuring diversity could be improved. In line with statutory requirements our equality impact assessment process will be applied to both new policies as well as existing policies and functions on an agreed programme.
